Reading

1. Read the passage and answer the questions given below.

In the middle of a quiet village stood a huge mango tree. It was old, but it was strong and full of sweet fruits. Every morning, children gathered under its cool shade to read, play, and chat with their friends. Birds built their nests on its branches, while squirrels happily ran up and down its trunk. One summer, the village faced a severe water shortage. The tree began to lose its leaves, yet it continued to provide shade and shelter to everyone. The villagers realised how important trees were for their lives. They worked together to save the tree by bringing water from a nearby well. Slowly, the tree became green again. From that day onward, the villagers planted many more trees and promised to protect nature for future generations.
